

Emerging Arts Advocates invite you to “Arts Day After Hour at the Circle Gallery”

WHO: After an invigorating Maryland Arts Day (MAD – register HERE), come unwind with Emerging Arts Advocates (EAA) at the Maryland Federation of Art at the Circle Gallery (just a block from the Miller Senate Building in Annapolis).

WHAT: This social is an extension of Maryland Arts Day and the second event in the Emerging Arts Advocates (EAA) Professional Development and Networking Series. EAA is an initiative of Maryland Citizens for the Arts \(MCA\), your statewide arts advocacy organization which has worked to increase public recognition and support of the Arts since 1977.

WHEN: Wednesday, February 8, 2012, begins at 4:30 p.m.

WHERE: Maryland Federation of Art/Circle Gallery
18 State Circle
Annapolis, MD 21401 (map it)

Come see this charming space and enjoy the current exhibit at the Circle Gallery.

WHY: Attendees suggest they can never have enough time to network and meet with colleagues and cohorts from the around the state. In addition, we've invited lawmakers including emerging leaders from the General Assembly to join us and continue building relationships that will sustain efforts in arts advocacy for future generations. Come lend your voice to this dynamic coalition made up of young thought leaders like you.

Wine and cheese, light fare will be served.

Space is limited. Save your spot now! RSVP with Brian Francoise at brian@mdarts.org

This event is a participating program of Maryland Citizens of the Arts and Maryland Arts Day with our co-sponsor and host Maryland Federation of Art.
